is pleased to invite you to a workshop

European Administrative Space – Balkan realities

February 18-19, 2011

Grand Hotel Bonavia, Dolac 4

Rijeka, Republic of Croatia

This is a programmatic event, planned as part of Jean Monnet Framework Project South-East European developments on the Administrative Convergence and Enlargement of the European Administrative Space in Balkan States, now at its second year of realization.

The workshop should provide an opportunity for academicians, public managers and other professional groups to exchange insights about the developments taking place in the public administration. Discussions with representatives of the national authority coordinating administrative reforms will be possible during coffee breaks and lunch, especially on the first date of the event. It will also serve as a platform to compare and discuss similarities among Western Balkan countries in the process of integrating EAS principles, as well as acknowledge differences related to their particular traditions in the structuring and operating of their national administrations.

!!! The authors are kindly requested to submit their presentation proposals, with suggested thematic session to the organizer, the Faculty of Economics of the University of Rijeka, via e-mail: dvasicek@efri.hr and/or kastelan@efri.hr by January 15, 2011.
