Welcome to the ELGS

In the present, evermore globalized era, there is without any doubt, a need for homogenized curricula at a European level and a need for institutions that can offer students qualifications, knowledge and skills that are recognized across national borders.

Aiming to be continuously at the forefront of research and education, the European Public Law Organization (EPLO) has created an International University School under the name of “European Law and Governance School” (ELGS), which constitutes the materialization of this need.

Why Study at the ELGS:

- Study in the cradle of democracy and in a place of rich cultural heritage
- Connect to a network of 30 Universities in across 20 countries
- Apply learning through interactive courses, study visits and internships
- Join flexible, interdisciplinary programs corresponding to the future needs of Europe
- Conduct research in up to 10 languages
- Access an international network of 100+ of the world's best professors
- Access a comprehensive library and partner universities' resources
- Publish your work through the EPLO's prestigious publications
- Interact with professors through small classrooms

A Message from the Provosts

There is much more to Europe than open borders, free movement, common institutions and balanced (and often bureaucratic) decision making processes. All of them are not ends in themselves, they are means towards a much wider and noble ambition: to secure peace, democracy, tolerance, fundamental rights, western civilization and the arts.

Europe is undoubtedly going through its most challenging period since its creation, in the aftermath of World War II, but we are convinced that this crisis will be overcome and that Europe has the potential of becoming stronger than ever. In order for this to happen and to ensure that this crisis is not repeated, one of the greatest needs that must be met is the provision of proper education about the values, ideals and functioning of Europe. As a result, it is our aim at the ELGS to give our students the broader perspective and to inform them about European matters and European integration. They will be offered a comparative and interdisciplinary approach to European studies, which is flexible to fit their personal needs, and they will study in an international environment with students, professors and practitioners from throughout the world. Upon completing the program, students will not only understand how Europe works, but gain the knowledge, practical experience, skills and confidence that they will need to go out into society and make Europe better.

PROVOSTS

Prof. Vassilis Hatzopoulos,
Undergraduate Studies

Dr. Andreas Pottakis,
Postgraduate Studies

Professor Vassilis Hatzopoulos is Professor at the Democritus University of Thrace (Greece), a visiting Professor at the College of Europe, Bruges (Belgium) and an Honorary Lecturer at the University of Nottingham (UK). He practices law at the Athens Bar since 1995 in the fields of Internal Market (emphasis on services and free movement), network industries and public procurement.

He has consulted the Greek government on implementing the EU acquis on public procurement, rail deregulation and energy liberalization and in simplifying the regulatory environment (regulatory reform). He has a Ph.D. from the University of Strasbourg, an LL.M. in International Law from the University of Cambridge, he studied commercial law in the University of Strasbourg (Maîtrise) and EC law in the College of Europe in Bruges (DEEA).

Dr. Andreas Pottakis is the Ombudsman of Greece. He graduated from the National and Capodistrian University of Athens, Faculty of Law and he was awarded a doctorate (D.Phil, Oxon) in EU Law from the University of Oxford (Worcester College). He was formerly the Head of Legal Office at the General Secretariat of the Hellenic Government and Attorney at Law, and is Member of the Scientific Council at ECCLE and Alternate Director at the Academy of European Public Law (EPLO).

He has lectured at various European Universities, and most recently in Greece, where he has also pursued a career as a lawyer since 2001. He has considerable experience in organizing and running vocational training and Inter-University courses in several countries in Europe and abroad as scientific director. He has published extensively on a wide range of areas, including, inter alia, European Public Law, Comparative Law, Constitutional and Administrative Law, and the legal protection of Human Rights.

The ELGS in Brief

The Conception of the School

The European Law and Governance School is founded upon the belief that the European Union plays a crucial role in ensuring global stability, promoting democracy, and the overall progress of mankind, and that the core values of the European Union must be upheld while it strives for better integration. The ELGS also believes that the key source of hope and the only path to successful integration is through the proper education and training of the youth of Europe.

Inspired by the values that lie at the heart of the European Union, such as fundamental rights, the free movement of professionals, goods and services, and the creation of a single market system, as well as by the challenges and opportunities created by these policies, the ELGS has identified the need to create a new form of education that is Pan-European in character. This education must start at the undergraduate level in order to create and prepare the next generation of legal and governance scholars to work within the fast-evolving European and International institutional structures.

The idea was initially conceived by Professor Giuliano Amato, Former Prime Minister of Italy, member of the Board of Directors of the EPLO and currently Honorary President of the Board of Trustees of the ELGS. To that effect, in 2008 the “Group of Rome” was constituted around him and comprised of the most esteemed professors and practitioners. The Group met regularly to discuss the various strategic and operational aspects of the project. As the time passed, the project matured enough for the Board of Directors of the EPLO to decide in 2009 to create an EPLO agency called the “European Law and Governance School”, thus providing it with all the necessary tools and empowerment needed to achieve its objective.

The inaugural launching of the School took place with the first symbolic meeting of the Board of Trustees at the premises of the European Parliament in the spring of 2013. The further development of the School followed while 2016 marked the initiation of the Schools’ programs. The programs were announced at the Quirinale Palace of Italy in the presence of H.E. The President of the Republic of Italy Mr. Sergio Mattarella on May 18, 2016.

The Story behind the School Logo

The School’s logo was inspired by the recently uncovered 6-winged seraphim mosaic of the church of Agia Sophia, in Istanbul which is estimated to be over 700 years old. Furthermore, the phrase surrounding the logo is derived from ancient Greek and is “ΑΜΕΣ ΔΕ Γ' ΕΣΣΟΜΕΣΘΑ ΠΟΛΛΩ ΚΑΡΡΟΝΕΣ”. This phrase was used by the Ancient Spartans in what was called the “Circle of Ancient Spartans” and stated what the younger generations were promising their elders, that they will become much better than their generation.

The symbolic significance is substantial, as the archangel was unearthed at a prominent geographical location at the crossroads of civilization, and the phrase surrounding it encompasses the ELGS mission, which is to constantly strive for excellence.

The Concept of the School

The Vision

The vision of the ELGS is to create a generation of youth that will identify themselves as Europeans, that will serve Europe, and that will disseminate the idea, culture and values of Europe throughout the world.

Considering the reforms made within the European Higher Education Area that facilitate the recognition of knowledge and skills across Europe, as well as the European programs designed to mobilize and unite the youth of Europe, the ELGS has combined these values, policies, standards and efforts to create an entirely new form of European tertiary-level education that is holistic, integrated and interdisciplinary in its approach, and which starts from the undergraduate level up until the Executive level, thus covering the needs of legal and governance academics and professionals at all stages of their journey.

Our vision is that the ELGS will create generations of youth, from both inside and outside of Europe, that will be part of the dream of Europe and serve as disseminators of the values of the European Union throughout the rest of the world.

Scope and Goals

The European Law and Governance School (ELGS) is a modern International University School with the aim and mission to offer Excellence in tertiary levels of Education in the fields of European Law and Governance.

The School aims to shape socially responsible leaders of the future with inquisitive minds and free spirits.

The ELGS is committed to educating the next generation of Europe and the world's legal practitioners, public administrators and leaders by imparting them with the knowledge necessary to effectively work within the fast evolving European and global institutional structures that transcend national frameworks, and the skills to confront and address the new global opportunities and challenges.

The ELGS provides interdisciplinary undergraduate, postgraduate courses, and Executive Education courses, with fresh material and a unique design.

Three pillars encompass this establishment's policy and values:

- to offer Excellence in education through theory, practice, and transversal skills development,
- to promote Innovation and Intellectual Curiosity through a supportive and flexible environment,
- to encourage Change in society by cultivating the European citizens of tomorrow.

The People

Governance

The ELGS is honored to have the support and partnership of the world's most prestigious universities and to be under the leadership of the leading minds in law and governance scholarship.

Teaching & Learning

Designed by a body of internationally recognized and acclaimed European academics and practitioners, the programs of the ELGS offer a supranational approach to law and governance studies in the EU, and provide students with a great degree of flexibility and mobility.

The ELGS was designed to provide all students with the opportunities to design their own world-class education. At the heart of this offering is the ability to create majors, minors, and specializations, as well as joint degree programs between the legal and governance tracks. Students have the opportunity to combine studying at the ELGS with mobility to one of the partner Universities or to gain double degrees with some of these Universities. Furthermore, the programs integrate skills courses as well as apprenticeship periods in public administrations, international organizations and law firms.

The range of optional modules and opportunities for student mobility and internships supports a high degree of personalization of studies, enabling students to tailor-make their educational experiences. In accordance with recent trends in higher education, special attention is given to the development of transversal skills and research methodology. At the heart of the ELGS’ offering is the ability to create majors, minors and specializations in topics, as well as joint degree programs, which enable students at all levels of studies to take classes from both the legal tracks and the governance programs, so as to ensure a truly interdisciplinary approach to law and governance studies.

Degrees & Courses

Recognition of Degrees of the ELGS/EPLO

- Art. 76 of Law 4310/2014 par. 8 (amending Art. 4 of Law 3328/2005), lays down that higher education degrees issued by International Organizations to which the Hellenic Republic is a party are equivalent to the degrees delivered by the Greek public higher education institutions.
- The degree programs offered by the ELGS are recognized by the network of Universities that have signed agreements with the ELGS.

I. UNDERGRADUATE DEGREES

The legal track of the ELGS Undergraduate studies aims to shape the European lawyer of the new era, focusing on the European perspective of the legal profession, while highlighting the common legal traditions of European states and the principles that underpin the discipline on a global scale. The ELGS Undergraduate curriculum in Governance focuses on European governance studies, without ignoring the global dimension of governance, contributing thus to the creation of a new generation of highly skilled administrators and leaders.

LLB in European Law

This uniquely designed and cutting-edge three-year taught undergraduate law degree program lies at the heart of the mission of the ELGS as an academic hub of European integration.

The main objective of the program is to offer students an in-depth look at the functioning of the European legal order in its capacity as a derivative of international law and as an amalgamation of national legal traditions and European Union law. By unprecedentedly combining theories of EU law, public international law and the general legal traditions of national jurisdictions, students should acquire a comprehensive view and understanding of the EU's mission, progress and roadmap.

Using as a toolbox specifically designated and diversified compulsory and optional modules, students will be able to unravel the complex process of European legal integration. Dependent upon the selection of elective modules, a specialization may be followed (EU Law, European and Global Business Law or a national law of their choice).

The LLB in European law is created and supported by the expansive ELGS International Faculty network of over 100 legal and governance scholars and practitioners worldwide, the ELGS' Partner Universities across Europe and the world, and the EPLO. Importantly, students of the program will be granted access to attend EPLO events on key themes in European law and governance and to interact with renown EU leaders and decision-makers. Students graduate with a clear understanding of the most up-to-date scholarly research in the field of European Union law, as well as the practical applications of the theoretical knowledge, and a solid professional network to support them in their career after the ELGS.

To whom it is addressed

This degree is ideal for students that:

- seek positions in EU institutions and bodies,
- desire to be lawyers in large legal firms operating at a EU level, are from outside of the EU but must interact with the EU,
- desire to be legal advisors working at cross-border levels within the EU, and
- aim to be national public administrators that work on an EU level
- students aspiring to engage in legal research

Program Benefits

This program enables students to better understand the current context, framework and long-term objectives of the EU in its mission for the full integration of member states, and also enables students a great degree of flexibility, mobility and personalization of their studies. Through the many partnerships of the ELGS, students can further on specialize in a national law of their choice by studying abroad at the many partner universities and institutions throughout Europe and the world.

Additionally, students will need to serve as interns in return for course credits, thus gaining invaluable on-the-job experience and building a professional network to support them after graduation. By the end of this program, students will be able to understand the origins of EU legal integration, its systems and framework, where the challenges lie, and where more work needs to be done.

Program Content

The LLB in European law is a three-year taught degree program, earning a total of 180 ECTS credits. Courses are led by key theorists and practitioners in their fields, and delivered through classic lectures and interactive tutorials. Some courses will also integrate other teaching methodologies where appropriate, such as moot courts, site visits to various public and private offices, as well as group presentations. The program provides students a comprehensive understanding of the world of law and of contemporary governance, with a focus on the European Union. Moreover, this program will grant students the opportunity to develop critical skills and valuable professional experience that will prepare them for life after graduation.

This pioneering program fills a gap in education about the EU, its laws, and how it is governed by providing students with a unique interdisciplinary background that will allow them to comprehend its complex reality and interrelated aspects. Students should choose to follow the first two years of the LLB in European Law program and the last year of the BA in European Governance program, or vice versa. This grants students the option of personalizing their studies as much as possible, depending upon what they hope to do in their future careers.

To whom it is addressed

This degree is ideal for students that:

- seek positions in European and international institutions and bodies
- aim to be national public administrators that work on an EU and international level
- aim to pursue a career in the areas of public policy, public affairs, civil society organizations, and related sectors

[...] All in all, I enjoy that our School is of a small size because it allows students to really get to know their lecturers. The School as a whole demonstrates a willingness to support and help us out along the way. If we take into account the fact that we are creating new Societies for students to participate in, I believe that it is an excellent place to study and I recommend it to anyone.

Minoas Vitalis, BA in European Law & Governance Studies, Class of 2016

II. POSTGRADUATE DEGREES

The ELGS taught postgraduate degrees focus on legal and governance studies and enable students to specialize in EU law or governance issues. A further specialization under each degree program allows students to gain expertise on the banking system in the EU, EU governance, and much more.

LLM in EU Law

This one-year taught degree program followed by one semester of independent research, offers students an in-depth look at key issues of European Union law, and enables them to choose from a variety of elective courses addressing the most pressing themes being discussed throughout Europe.

The objective of the program is to offer: a) a solid institutional/constitutional understanding of the manner the EU works and the ways it may evolve in the future, b) a comprehensive and horizontal vision of the main EU policy areas combined with c) a spot-on analysis of some of the most dynamic policy areas. The approach followed will be essentially legal, but the political and other contextual dynamics will also be put into perspective. Students having followed the program shall be in a position to discuss any major EU legal issue, as they will be acquainted with the relevant legislation, case law and scholarly literature. They shall be in a position to offer oral and/or written advice on core questions of EU law and will be able to draft basic court submissions on EU law matters, as well as to write a publishable academic paper.

To whom it is addressed

It is ideal for students:

- with first degrees in legal sciences or in the field of governance
- who desire or require in-depth knowledge in key themes in EU law for their professional advancement
- for legal professionals who wish to access European jurisdictions or who wish to specialize in Banking Law

Study Options

- One-year taught program in Athens at the ELGS on EU Law followed by one semester of independent research
- One semester at the ELGS and one semester study abroad at one of the ELGS' partner universities: Qualified students will have the opportunity to study abroad during the second semester of their studies at one of the ELGS' partner universities.
- Double-degree program with Temple University: one year at the ELGS (EU Law) and one year at Temple (US Law). Before applying, students should also carefully consider this double degree program with Temple University, a two-year program, where students will take the LLM at the ELGS and followed by one year at Temple University as part of their LLM for Foreign Lawyers. Upon successful completion of the double degree program, students will be eligible to register for the American Bar Exam.

This LLM program can be a student's first step towards a research degree (MPhil or PhD).

Program Content

The LLM in EU law is a one-year taught degree program followed by one semester of independent research with a thesis requirement, earning a total of 90 ECTS credits. Courses are led by key theorists and practitioners in their fields, and delivered through classic lectures and interactive tutorials. Some courses will also integrate other teaching methodologies where appropriate, such as moot courts, site visits to various public and private offices, as well as group presentations. Students must successfully complete 6 compulsory modules and 2 optional modules, followed by a 15,000 word thesis.

Courses

Compulsory Modules

- The Constitution of the EU and EU External Relations Law
- Judicial Protection
- Competition Law
- European EMU Law
- EU Environment and Energy Law
- From Market Freedoms to Citizens

*Elective Modules

- EU Capital Markets Law
- EU Asylum and Migration Law

III. RESEARCH DEGREES

The ELGS Research Degrees are modern programs of the highest academic standard, which have been designed with flexibility and mobility in mind. The International Faculty Network is comprised of professors and practitioners from throughout the world, which enables students to conduct research on a wide range of topics, in many countries and in up to 10 languages*.

* Pending upon availability of an appropriate supervisor

Master of Philosophy

The ELGS Master of Philosophy is a 2-year degree program which enables students to conduct independent research in the fields of Legal Research, Governance Studies, or on an interdisciplinary topic. It is supported by the expansive ELGS International Faculty network of over 100 legal and governance scholars and practitioners worldwide, the ELGS' Partner Universities across Europe and the world, and the EPLO. Students graduate with a clear understanding and awareness of the most up-to-date scholarly research, as well as a solid network to support them in their career after the ELGS.

Successful applicants will be assigned a supervisor, based upon their academic interests, from the renowned International Faculty Network of the ELGS. Full time residency is not a requirement for this degree, but students may be required to attend several training sessions throughout the program which will be held at the EPLO premises in Greece. The first training session will introduce students to advanced research methods, while consecutive sessions focus on tutoring and teaching skills. Students are also expected to attend classes, seminars, and lectures, as designated by their supervisors, and to be actively involved in presenting their research findings at conferences throughout Europe and the greater world. Upon completion of the program students will deliver up to a 50,000 word thesis and must successfully defend their thesis before an international jury to attain their MPhil.

While this program encourages mobility and flexibility, students are expected to be devoted full time to their MPhil studies. Candidate students that are employed should be able to balance work and study and deliver their thesis within the established time period.

Facilities and Resources

The ELGS offers students the opportunity to live and study in one of the most exciting cities in Europe. As the birthplace of democracy, it is the perfect place to study law and governance. An academic hub, that provides students with unparalleled resources to expand their minds and careers.

The EPLO Library

The European Public Law Library, hosted at the premises in Sounion and exceeding 30.000 volumes, is linked to the top digital libraries in the world. At the same time, the European Review of Public Law, published under the scientific and editorial direction of the EPLO, comprises more than 120 books on public law and more than 90 issues of its quarterly multilingual journal.

ELGS Premises

The EPLO Sounion premises

The EPLO students enjoy the beauty and the tranquility of a traditional collegiate setting amidst a landscape of unparalleled environmental and cultural beauty. The EPLO premises in Sounion that host the Undergraduate programs of the ELGS are one hour away from Athens by car, overlook the Aegean Sea and are located by the bay of Cape Sounion, where the ancient Temple of Poseidon rests.

Sounion combines history with a landscape of unparalleled natural beauty. Its key tourist attraction is the ruins of the Temple of Poseidon, which was built in 444 BC, in honor of the ancient Greek god of the sea.

Sounion facilities occupy 32.5 acres of land and include a large-scale conference room and four (4) seminar rooms.

EPLO building at the foot of the Acropolis

The neoclassical building covers 1000 m², spread over 3 floors. Its construction began before 1830, and today it is considered as one of the most exquisite architectural landmarks of the area. The interior contains ceiling frescoes and the building has been officially classified as a "Historical monument of Greece" by the Ministry of Culture, since 1995. Renovation works that have restored its original beauty have been concluded. The building that hosts the postgraduate programs of the ELGS was inaugurated by the President of the Hellenic Republic in September 2015, while it accommodates today a wide range of the EPLO activities.

Leisure Activities

The Sounion premises are located at the seaside, only steps away from the Aegean Sea with an outdoor open theater and a garden of 30.000 square meters. It is only 4 km away from the ancient Temple of Poseidon in Cape Sounion. Sports facilities include a basketball court, a tennis court and a volleyball court.

Students can spend their free time during summer practicing their favorite sports at the campus' facilities, swimming and participating in water sports at the many nearby beaches and coves, engaging in outdoor activities such as bike riding or running, and spending time with friends on nights and weekends at the nearby town of Lavrio.

A range of optional extra-curricular activities for the body and mind, providing you with the opportunity to explore the Greek nature and culture, are made available through our Student Affairs Department. All activities are subject to attendance and prior notice is required.

Accommodation

The ELGS offers accommodation and transfer packages for international or non-commuting participants. Students who require assistance with accommodation and transportation should contact info@elgs.eu. The EPLO Guest House, located at the EPLO in Sounion (Legrainia area), is comprised of 11 double occupancy bedrooms with bathroom, a fully equipped kitchen and open-air sports courts and gardens all facing the Aegean sea. Students may nevertheless choose to make their own accommodation and transportation arrangements.

Life in Athens

Athens is one of the most interesting European capitals, filled with juxtapositions of new and old, east and west. It is at once cosmopolitan and marked by its extensive history, and on the other hand extremely populous and full of contradictions. One thing is striking to all travelers: its warm and hospitable people. Once visited, it quickly becomes your home.

Throughout its long history, Athens has become the core of western civilization. It is the birthplace of democracy and home to a great academic tradition.

It offers a lively social scene, cultural and historical landmarks and strong academic tradition. Greece, and Athens in particular, is noted for its beautiful weather and scenery. Beautiful beaches are easily accessible and the weather is mostly favorable all year round.
